Staffing Company Announces Name Change to Unify Their Global Brand

The Allegis Group changes its German operations to Aerotek GmbH to better reflect its international staffing solutions

Frankfurt, Germany – February xx, 2008 – A leading international staffing company, known as Allegis Group throughout Germany, has officially changed its name to Aerotek GmbH. The name change took effect on January 1 of this year to better unite its German operations under the Aerotek brand.

Aerotek, which is a member of Allegis Group, operates more than 150 non-franchised offices throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. The 25-year-old staffing company has been recognized numerous times as the top provider in engineering and technical staffing solutions in the U.S.

Aerotek's German office will continue serving the staffing needs of local companies by providing contract, contract-to-hire and permanent positions in engineering, aerospace and defence, scientific, administrative, customer service, corporate professional, industrial and skilled trades.

The name change is part of an international strategy to promote the company's high-quality reputation for technical staffing under the Aerotek brand. The growing global economy and the increasing need for international companies to work with a staffing partner that can provide staffing solutions across countries further supported the decision for the company's international offices to operate under a unified brand and company name.

Aerotek was established in the United States in 1983 as a staffing company catering to the needs of the aerospace and defence industry. Over the years, Aerotek diversified and expanded its niche service offerings to include other technical, commercial and professional staffing services through several mergers and acquisitions. Today the Aerotek name, most well-known in the United States, continues to expand its presence and staffing services throughout Europe.
